

Earl St.,
Musgrave Rd.,
Brisbane
Nov. 6th 1907.

My dear Grandmother

It is quite time some of us wrote to you, and it seems a great shame that we do not do so more regularly, but as Christmas is drawing near, I cannot let it pass without writing you a few lines.

We all hope you are enjoying as good health as can be expected, also uncles, aunts and cousins. We were very pleased to hear that Cousin Maggie is studying for a teacher, and hope she will be successful in all her exams. I am very sorry she has not a piano of her own. If it was only possible for her to drop into our place, she could devote all her spare time to it. I am in sixth class at school; but I am going to leave at Christmas and I hope to learn dressmaking and millinery.

Thank you very much for the papers you so kindly send us. We wish you all the compliments of the season and with much love to all I remain, dear Grandmother, your ever-loving granddaughter, May.

Transcribed from the original by Margaret Marlow 1 April 2021, with some punctuation changes.