

Ringfort by ciara moloney

Amy
Conolly
Sara
Cahill
Lucy
Hawthorn

When ~~we~~ our class went to a ring fort in a field, we saw lots of flowers there. Other than daisies we saw the yellow iris which looks like daisy with all its petals picked off, the forget-me-not, a blue flower that's very small. ~~and~~ On the North side of the ring fort we found a large stone brick in the ground which was at least 50cm, it could be a part of the hut. The fosse was 6m, the bank was 1m 50cm, Palisade was 2m. The entrance to ringfort was on the South side. The "mystical" tree where people thought fairies live was on West side. ~~At~~ For food back in the bronze age many people would've ate cows and beef, they would've ate other meat like pork ~~and~~ ^{but} and deer but cows was mainly they ^{were} depend on. Other than flowers there was thistle and nettles and dock leaves. Some ~~are~~ ^{can} ~~good~~ ^{cure} stings and some can give you stings. Take the thistle for example, it can give a pinch, but it goes away, whereas the nettles can give you a sting and it will not go away unless treated. With the dock leaf though you can treat nettle stings. Back in the bronze age there were many ranks. The chieftain would be head of the village then the farmers would ~~would~~ work for the chieftain, then there workers who would work for farmers and the slaves work for everybody.