

St. Patricks Well

When we came to the field, the whole class were brought to the well, she explained to us about what was around and surrounded it.

Then we went to the Ringfort which was quite big. After Bernie explained ~~on~~ what happened here and after she was I went down straight away while the others had a look around.

When we were back at the well we figured the Depth, the Height and the width (40cm, 40cm and 5m). Then we done the Townland (Ballygra South), County (Galway), Map designation (St. Patricks Well), Site type (A holy well) and Classification (well).

I had to go back and forth to ask what references and she said "it means if it is in a book or on a website." When I came back I told the others the meaning, and after that, Ben, Eoin and Thomas went to Bernie on what Classification and Grid reference means. at the meantime I was with Hannah and she aske me to do the Comments. When I was done we went back to the ringfort where the class were measuring the length of the ringfort they took some photo graphs and Bernie told me to take some pictures of the Well. When I was done, the whole class were coming back from the Rath. And now Im hear writing this story.
