Gannet- One of our largest seabirds, they can be seen in Galway Bay year round. Often seen plunging into shoals of fish in large flocks.

Common Tern- These graceful seabirds are summer visitors, and can be seen both coastally and on larger lakes in Galway.

Common Guillemot- a species of auk that breeds on sea cliffs such as those on the Aran islands, but can often be seen further into Galway bay.

Storm Petrel- One of our smallest seabirds, not much larger than a swallow, storm petrels breed on offshore islands and are summer visitors to Galway bay.
